

Life of Allama Iqbal

- Allama Iqbal was born on November 9, 1877, in Sialkot, British India (now Pakistan).
- Allama Iqbal is known as the 'Poet of the East' and a prominent philosopher.
- Allama Iqbal studied at Government College Lahore and earned a degree in philosophy.
- Allama Iqbal continued his education in Europe, earning a doctorate from Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich.
- Allama Iqbal inspired Muslims in the Indian subcontinent with his poetry and vision.
- Allama Iqbal proposed the idea of a separate homeland for Muslims, which led to the creation of Pakistan.
- Allama Iqbal's poetry is primarily in Urdu and Persian, addressing themes of spirituality, selfhood, and nationalism.
- Allama Iqbal was awarded the title 'Sir' by the British government in 1922.
- Allama Iqbal died on April 21, 1938, in Lahore, British India.
- Allama Iqbal's mausoleum is located near the Badshahi Mosque in Lahore, Pakistan.